JAMES NOTTINGHAM

James Nottingham has been a teacher and leader in both primary and secondary schools in the UK. He is now the founding director of Challenging Learning, a group of companies employing 25 full time and 40 part time staff in Australia, the UK, Denmark, Norway and Sweden . His passion is in transforming the most up-to-date research into strategies that really work in the classroom. Described by Skolvärlden (Swedish Teaching Union) as “one of the most talked about names in the world of school development,” he was recently listed among the Future 500 – “a definitive list of the UK’s most forward thinking and creative innovators.”

Keynote 1: Challenge

The typical effect of giving students choice is to slow learning down because too many pick the easy option. This opening keynote will look at some of the reasons for this and suggest ways to change so that students opt for the challenging path each time. Keynote 2: Feedback

The quality of feedback should not be judged according to the message given but in terms of what is received, understood and applied. Sounds obvious and yet so many assessment procedures in schools still focus on the the quality of marking. This second session will look at the evidence of impact and suggest alternatives, including the Seven Steps to Feedback Heaven. Preview video: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=viHaslVc9cc>

Keynote 3: Mindset

Carol Dweck's work on Mindset is pretty well known these days. However, the dirty little secret is that research has yet to show a significant link between a Growth Mindset and improved test results. This final session will look at why so few schools are getting it right (yet) and what can be done to change this. Preview videos: <https://vimeo.com/album/3040480>
